Drive-thrus coming to Southport

■ Taco Bell is near completion

Southport will soon have a couple more fast food restaurants, and these will come with drive-through lanes.

Both are planned for the Lowe's shopping center on the 2200-block of Lake Washington Boulevard, west of Jefferson. First in line is a Taco Bell, said David Tilley, Senior Planner for the City of West Sacramento.

"Certainly I would expect the Taco Bell to be open by the end of the year," he estimated. "Right next door is a McDonalds. Both of them would be drive-throughs."

The burger place is not quite as advanced in construction.

Also in progress on the fast food scene in town is a Subway's, moving in to the former "Blue Blizz" site next to city hall on the 1000-block of West Capitol. That sandwich shop will move from its present location in the Washington neighborhood near the Tower and I Street bridges.

Some of the other local restaurants to open in West Sacramento already in 2011 include The Eatery, a bistro-style restaurant in Southport near Nugget, and a Squeeze Inn hamburger shop on Harbor Boulevard south of the freeway.

Dirt haulers heading to levee sites

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Just where are all those dirt-hauling trucks going?

Michael Bessette, West Sacramento's flood protection manager, told the News-Ledger that a lot of them are probably hauling fill to several local levee improvement projects.

"There are currently three levee project sites under construction right now," he said. "One is in Southport – the Sacramento riverbank setback levee project on South River Road just outside of Stone Locks. One is in the CHP Academy area (in the northwest). That's the Sacramento Bypass Levee."

"And the other," said Bessette, "is at the Rivers project (in the northeast). I think the Rivers is basically done receiving fill, though. But not the other two."

Bessette said he wasn't sure where the fill dirt was being shipped from for the Southport area, but the northern projects share a dirt source.

"The two projects in the north are receiving from a Teichert Construction site in Sacramento County, so it's coming from the Highway 50 system somewhere," said Bessette.

Veterans Parade coming Friday

Organizer promises a salute to U.S. veterans, and a little something for everybody

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The first West Sacramento Veterans Day Parade is scheduled for this Friday afternoon through West Sacramento's Park Boulevard area – and organizer Debbie Reynolds of the Eskaton Wilson Manor says there will be a lot for viewers to see.

"There is a grand total of over 65 entries totaling 636 participants in the parade," said Reynolds in a recent email. "Within those numbers are over 150 veterans, almost 100 cheerleaders, 15 beauty queens, 32 motorcycles, 19 classic cars and two vintage fire trucks. One entry I am especially excited about. . . is an original 1966 Huey UH-1C gunship that will be carried through the parade on a trailer."

That helicopter will be seen along with a Wells Fargo stage coach, the Ben-Ali Shriners Keystone Kops and the Call Aggie marching band from UC Davis.

The parade will have seven grand marshals, representing military service from four generations of military history, reports Reynolds.

"The 'Cappucino Cruisers,' a car club from Orangevale, will be driving my seven grand marshals through the parade."

The event is scheduled to last from 2-4 p.m. on Friday, which is Veterans' Day. It starts at the Westmore Oaks Elementary School on Clarenton Street, proceeds on Meadow Road, turns right on Westacre and again on Park, and then goes left on Stone to Sam Combs Park – where festivities will follow the parade.

PARADE ROUTE and key points (north is to the right). The parade will wind through a West Sacramento residential neighborhood on Friday afternoon.

There will be a review stand near Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Members of River City High's Interact Club will help run things, and will also collect toy donations at the parade for a holiday toy drive.

The parade will be hosted by Channel 13 news anchor Ron Jones – a veteran himself – who will be working from the Trinity Presbyterian Church location and Westacre and Park.

Reynolds admits that there is no way of knowing how many people will come to watch, since this is the first parade of its kind. But she's optimistic.

"Local officials anticipate several thousand people will join us in this salute to veterans," she said.

Walking, biking to school

The City of West Sacramento announced Oct. 20 that it had received a $496,000 federal grant to implement a new "Safe and Healthy Routes to School Project." The grant was administered by Caltrans.

The project will seek to "establish a culture of walking and biking to school in West Sacramento" and to make infrastructure improvements that may be needed to help students do that. The program will run from 2012-2014.

The project will include "comprehensive education and encouragement programs customized to meet the needs of each of eight West Sacramento" elementary schools, said a press release from Greta Vohlers, Transportation Program Specialist for the city. The schools include grades kindergarten through eight.

"We expect to build bottom-up support for safe routes to school and leave a dedicated group of advocates who can grow and maintain similar programs after the close of this project," said Vohlers.

At least one "parent champion" will be recruited from each campus, and trained to help encourage walking and biking to school.

Walmart helps meals program

The "Meals on Wheels" program in Yolo County has received a $20,000 grant through the Walmart Foundation's support of Meals on Wheels Association of America. The money will help the local Meals on Wheels chapter cope with gasoline costs and food prices, as it strives to bring regular hot meals to local shut-ins, including seniors.

"Thanks to the Walmart Foundation. . . grant, we now have a brighter future in our efforts to keep feeding seniors in our county," said Nicki McCabe, executive director of the Elderly Nutrition Program in Yolo County, which runs the Meals on Wheels program here.

The Walmart Foundation gave $5 million to the national meals program.

A chair and cabinet are barely recognizable after fire gutted an Evergreen Avenue apartment (courtesy of West Sac. Fire Department)

West Sacramento firefighters responded in force to an apartment fire on the 2100-block of Evergreen Avenue.

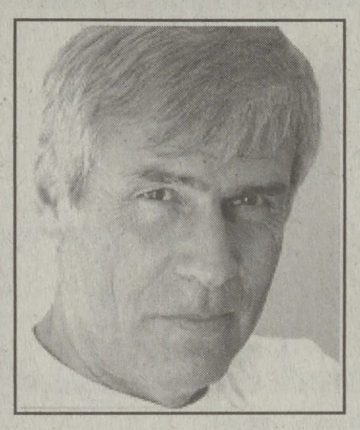
The call came in at 5:27 a.m. on Oct. 26, reports a department spokesperson. The first crew found a "fully involved" apartment on the second floor. All nearby apartments were evacuated, and nearby units and attic space were checked.

After the flames were doused, officials from the Red Cross helped find temporary housing for displaced residents. While West Sacramento fire units responded, units from the city of Davis helped maintain coverage for the rest of West Sacramento, through a "mutual aid" policy.

No injuries were reported. The cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Buzzy the businessman

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Note: With another Veterans Day right around the corner I am reminded of one of the many colorful characters I met while serving in the Vietnam War. His nickname was Buzzy and although I never saw him again after the war, something tells me he is alive and well and one of those one percent that the other ninety-nine percent have been protesting about lately.

Buzzy Bradford (not his real name) didn't go to Vietnam to do any of the fighting and dying. In fact, I'm pretty sure that Buzzy didn't care one way or the other who won the war. He wore an olive green uniform and walked around the compound in dusty combat boots like everyone else, and he had even been issued a rifle because cooks had to pull perimeter guard duty now and then, but soldiering just wasn't his thing. Buzzy was a businessman.

If you needed discounted cigarettes, you went to Buzzy. If you wanted one of the Vietnamese girls who worked in the mess hall to meet you in a hootch bunker late at night, you slipped Buzzy the going price and he set it up. If you didn't have time to go to the PX to pick up stamps and stationary to write your friends and family back in the world, Buzzy would go for you. If you needed to get some photos processed in a hurry, Buzzy knew a Vietnamese guy who could do it for half the price in half the time. And most important of all, if you needed some grass or speed, Buzzy knew where to get the best stuff.

Buzzy's cut was usually ten percent, and it had to be up-front. If he didn't like you, it was twenty-five percent, so everybody worked hard at keeping Buzzy happy. His fellow soldiers included him in all the pickup basketball and flag football games, even though he was the most uncoordinated human being I had ever met. They allowed him to read their letters because he rarely got one of his own. They let him bum smokes because they knew he was too cheap to buy his own, and they even played poker with him knowing full-well he cheated at every opportunity.

"Hey, Fisher," said Buzzy late one evening, sticking his oversized head into my hootch, "you interested in an advanced showing?"

"Advanced showing of what?" I asked him with suspicion.

"Come on," he said, grinning like he always did when he was up to no good, "it'll only take a few minutes. I want your opinion on something."

"What are you up to now, Buzzy? And how much is it going to cost me?"

"This one's a freebie," he assured me. "I just need a guinea pig, that's all."

"For what?"

"Questions, questions, questions. You coming or not?"

"Give me a hint."

"All you need to know is that I've really hit the jackpot this time. Now are you coming or not?"

Buzzy's gold mine turned out to be an ancient 16mm movie projector which he had somehow purchased from one of the Vietnamese black market vendors in downtown Soc Trang, which was within walking distance of our base. He then wrote to one of his old junior college fraternity brothers and convinced him to mail off a half-dozen or so stag films, which had apparently arrived a few days earlier.

"Even at five bucks a head, I guarantee you my first feature presentation is going to be a total sellout," Buzzy said with pride as he began stringing film from a little round tin can into his ancient movie projector.

"You're going to show a stag film here in the mess hall?" I asked him in disbelief.

"Yep, at eight o'clock sharp tomorrow night after all you soldiers have finishing playing war for the day. I've been getting the word out for a couple of days now. It's by invitation only, if you know what I mean."

"And the mess sergeant is actually going to let you do it?" I asked.

"Sure, for a small percentage of the take of course."

"But what if the first sergeant or the lieutenant finds out?"

"I don't think they will," said Buzzy confidently, "but if they do, I'm going to give them this great spiel about how these kind of flicks are really good for everyone's morale, and I think they just might go for it. In the meantime, I'm going to milk this baby for every penny it's worth."

The black and white picture Buzzy finally managed to throw up on one of the mess hall walls was kind of fuzzy and hard to follow, but I could clearly make out what the naked co-stars of the film were attempting to accomplish most of the time.

"No sound?" I asked Buzzy.

"No, I can't get it to work."

"I guess you don't really need sound, do you?" I volunteered.

"Naw, what's to say? Plus I bet the guys will make plenty of noise themselves."

After Buzzy and I had watched all twenty or so minutes of the movie, he turned to me and asked, "So, what did you think of it?"

If you needed discounted cigarettes, you went to Buzzy. If you wanted one of the Vietnamese girls who worked in the mess hall to meet you in a hootch bunker late at night, you slipped Buzzy the going price and he set it up.

"I could have used some popcorn," I said, trying to be funny.

"You know," said Buzzy, always looking for another way to make a buck, "now that's not a bad idea. Do you know what the markup on movie house popcorn is back in the world? I bet it's something like 400 percent! Anyway, I'm not sure I can get popcorn, but having some snacks to sell is a really good idea. Thanks!"

OPINION

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL:

The rise of rumor

There's always been a part of the media that has been salacious and irresponsible. But it's pretty clear that some media that used to consider itself "respectable" has lowered its standards. A lot.

The Internet – by its very character and by its crowded nature – has been a catalyst for this unwelcome change.

You can find plenty of examples of this downward slide on your own. A couple of examples that caught our eye recently were directly related to West Sacramento, and were found in online news stories posted by mainstream Sacramento television stations. Respectable stations.

Both relied heavily on anonymous sources to flesh out their stories.

The first concerned the closure of a West Sacramento charter school. The TV station report relied heavily on an anonymous source, who decried the school's management and made serious allegations repeated in the news story. The station didn't explain why they granted the source anonymity – they just let him or her talk. It's a great way to juice up an article, but a lousy way to be fair or get to the truth of a matter when you let somebody sling mud from behind a curtain.

An anonymous source can say anything he or she wants, without fear of retribution. And we, the readers and viewers of the story, are often given very little context – is the person a disgruntled employee? A rival of the accused? Why isn't their name being used?

The second recent news story was another online report from a TV station – this time, concerning allegations against a local teacher and coach who had been accused of inappropriately touching a female student. The station published information from unnamed students (possibly minors) alleging other questionable behavior by the teacher. The rumors appeared to make the teacher look more guilty.

Again, it makes for fun reading, but gives the reader little chance to weigh the accuracy or bias of the charges. How old were the students reporting the rumors? Did they have first-hand knowledge of what they were talking about, or is it just idle gossip? We can't tell.

It's not a journalist's job to search out and publish rumors.

Sometimes, a news agency can make a good case for using information from an anonymous source, and it should always be as a last resort. Perhaps the information is important, and there's no other way to get it without granting anonymity.

Any respectable news organization has a policy to restrict the use of anonymous sources. And when it does publish information from a person who remains anonymous, the organization owes its readers and viewers some sort of explanation about where the information is coming from and why the source is left to remain anonymous.

It's harder to write a juicy news article that way. But it's easier to write a fair and responsible one.

The News-Ledger experienced something new last week:

A law firm phoned to inquire if this newspaper's pages were recyclable. That information was needed so the lawyers could decide whether to publish a legal notice in here.

The firm, as you no doubt already knew, was from San Francisco.

(And the News-Ledger is, of course, recyclable – and we encourage our readers to recycle it when done just like we do.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why so expensive?

I have considered writing this protest letter many times but with my recent November City of West Sacramento billing statement, I must question the frequent increases in the city utility cost.

I retired in 1993 and planned to live in a home we purchased until age or health required me to move. Since I am a widow, I live alone and pay the same bill as I would if addition people lived with me. I have kept computer records of all payments for many years and note that in July of 1993 my city single family home utility bill was $48.13. Since that time, my utility bill has increased $33.59 to a total of $81.72. There have been 22 increases according to my records. By comparison, by PG&E bill has only gone up from $167 in 1993 to $178 in 2011. I have some control of other utility bills by careful utilization and surely it is less for one person than for a larger family.

Obviously there needs to be additional funds over this period but the number of increases and the amount of them is making it very difficult for many seniors to stay in a home they paid for and are now very likely living on a limited income. Values of homes and investments have decreased in that period and, we are told, there has been very little inflation. Since the beginning of a major recession in 2008, you have increased city bills by $6.57 a month.

We continue to hear from Mayor Cabaldon and council members during election campaigns about the amazing growth of West Sacramento. The cost to home owners and actual living

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

Julia Roberts, Tom Hanks star in "Larry Crowne"

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Larry Crowne" (PG-13) -- This movie strives for sweetness. It pursues it the way reality TV people strive to be actual celebrities, the way that overprivileged trophy wives strive to be 20 years younger. This movie tries so hard to be sweet that it becomes a delusional crusade for feel-good moments.

Tom Hanks is let go from his beloved job at a department store because he doesn't have a college degree. Stay with me, now. Hanks has no choice but to enroll in community college, bond with other misfits, buy a second-hand scooter, woo his professor (Julia Roberts) and keep smiling with those apple cheeks. It's hard to despise a movie that wants so badly to make people feel good, so "Larry Crowne" manages to charm its way out of a failing grade.

"Beginners" (R) -- Oliver (Ewan McGregor) is a introspective young man whose notions about life and love are seasoned by his experience with his late father (Christopher Plummer.) Oliver's father, you see, came out as a gay man at the age of 75 and proceeded to live his new life to the fullest. When Oliver meets and falls in love with a beautiful, eccentric foreigner (Melanie Laurent), the memories of his father rush back to form new insights.

Yep, it's melancholy and cutesy and the same time, but there is something to be found. There are some truly funny moments and a few interesting turns of event, but it's all interspersed with quite a bit of navel-gazing.

It's hard to despise a movie that wants so badly to make people feel good, so "Larry Crowne" manages to charm its way out of a failing grade.

"Superheroes" (NR) -- This HBO documentary looks into the world of the "real-life superheroes." Ordinary people wearing homemade costumes have started patrolling the streets in cities across America with the mission to do good.

It's hard not to watch. Because of the director's approach, these people can't be simply dismissed as loonies -- they are trying to do something good, after all -- but the reality of a security guard who, by night, calls himself Mr. Extreme isn't so illustrious.

"Evil Dead 2: 25th Anniversary Edition" (R) [Blu-ray] -- This is possibly the funniest and absolutely the most insane horror movie ever seen by man.

It's not a sequel, but a remake, done by the same director (Sam Raimi) with the same leading star, just with a bigger budget and wilder ideas. The film has a unique sensibility, i.e. when demons possess your hand, replace that hand with a chainsaw. By the time you finish the movie, you'll be wondering why all films can't be this ludicrous and exciting.

"The Night Circus" by Erin Morganstern (Doubleday, $26.95)
Reviewed by Ealish Waddell

Still just children, Celia Bowen and Marco Alisdair are plucked separately from ordinary lives and bound into a supernatural feud that they barely understand. It is to be a test of their skills in magic, and they are to create the battlefield from scratch -- an elaborate traveling circus, open only from dusk till dawn, a breathtakingly beautiful chessboard in black and white where their moves can be traded in ever-increasing displays of imagination and grandeur.

Of course, it is inevitable that Celia and Marco fall in love. But how can they ever have a future together, when the game decrees that one of them must win and one of them must die?

Interwoven with this intriguing main tale are a variety of sketches fleshing out the odd folk who call this precarious place home. Chief among them are the psychically gifted Murray twins, born on the night the circus opened and mysteriously linked with its health and fate. Their lives intersect that of dreamy Bailey, a regular kid who longs for a life beyond the farm, and whose destiny may prove vital to the circus's continued existence.

The circus itself is a masterpiece. Tents contain not only acrobats and animal tamers, but also a garden made completely of ice, a labyrinth among the clouds, a tree covered in wishes and a room full of bottled scents that evoke a lifetime of memories.

The novel's greatest strength is its atmosphere, which manages to pull off the tricky feat of feeling delicate and magical without succumbing to either twee or cloying in one direction or oppressively macabre in the other. A substantial air of the sinister gives heft to the circus's whimsy, but it is still a place more of joy than of darkness.

"The Night Circus" is a confection of a book, a virtual feast for the senses. When you're done, you'll want to don a crimson scarf and run off to join the circus, too.

Craving Cranberries

Cranberries are often part of a holiday feast, but their nutritious tastiness is worth having anytime. Like many fruits, cranberries are high in fiber and vitamin C and low in calories and fat. A fresh cup of these tangy berries has just 51 calories, 5 grams of fiber and 24 percent of the vitamin C that the average person needs in a day.

Cranberries are packed with antioxidants that may help maintain heart health and reduce cholesterol. The tannins in cranberries may help prevent gum disease and urinary tract infections. In the lab, cranberries prevent bacteria from adhering to the walls of the urinary tract and the gum line. According to the November 2010 Tufts University Health and Nutrition Letter, "a meta-analysis of randomized controlled trials investigating cranberry intake and urinary-tract infections showed that there has been some benefit established in reducing the number of infections in women."

Cranberry juice is often the choice when trying to prevent infection. The fluid in the juice also helps maintain hydration, which is known to help prevent infection. Cranberries are very tart and are often consumed in combination with sugar. For example, a glass of cranberry juice cocktail has about 30 grams of sugar and 137 calories. To add whole cranberries to your diet year-round, try baking cranberry nut bread, sprinkling dried cranberries on salads or including them in trail mix.

Cranberries also can be used to decorate your home during the holidays. Try placing cranberries in a glass bowl with water and place a floating candle in the middle. You're only limited by your imagination and creativity.

The Thanksgiving table would not be complete without the cranberry sauce. There's no need to open a can when this delicious Holiday Cranberry Sauce is so simple to make at home!

HOLIDAY CRANBERRY SAUCE

This sauce can be made ahead and will keep in an air-tight container for two weeks in the refrigerator. Combine cranberry sauce with 2 tablespoons of Dijon mustard and pour it over leftover turkey, baked fish, chicken or pork. It's a delicious way to finish the dish and a wonderful use for any Thanksgiving leftovers.

1 1/2 cups chopped, peeled Granny Smith apples (about 1/2 pound)
1 cup packed light brown sugar
1/2 cup white grape juice
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 (12-ounce) package fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
Ê

Combine all of the ingredients in a medium saucepan. Bring to a boil; reduce heat, and simmer until thick (about 15 minutes), stirring occasionally. Cool completely. Makes 16 (3 tablespoon) servings.

On Friday, River City High School played its final football game of the regular season at home against the Union Mine Diamondbacks.

Both the junior varsity and varsity games were very close, with Union Mine edging out River City J.V. by two points and edging out the River City varsity by 4.

The Raider junior varsity team was down early in the game by 14 points and fought their way back to tie the game up at the half. However, Union Mine would eventually go on to score a few more touchdowns and win the game by a final score of 36-34.

Scoring for River City were Bo Alvarez, who had 2 TD's, one for 17 yards and another for 14 yards. Aaron Tyson had a 2 yard TD run and a 31 yard TD run, while Jamal Williams ran for a 95 yard TD. The JV Team ended the season with an overall record of 6-4.

In the varsity Game, River City's defense did a good job of defending Sean Tow, the state's leading rusher. Raider quarterback Tucker McAmoil was 6 for 11, passing for a 158 yards; Malik Dumetz had five receptions for a total of 95 yards; Andrew Dutra had two receptions for a total of 63 yards (the longest of which was for 45 yards); Tevita Mafi scored on a fumble recovery in the end zone and Uriah Clark has 8 carries for a 125 yards with 2 TD's.

But Union Mine prevailed 24-20.

Uriah Clark finished the season with 1,054 yards rushing for the Raiders, and 13 touchdowns.

The varsity team finished the season with an overall record of 5-5.

The Raiders have secured a spot in the playoffs and will travel to Elk Grove on Fridayto face Elk Grove, which went 10-0 in its regular season season.

improvements is not usually mentioned. Yes, West Sacramento has surely grown but we have fewer restaurants, small family owned businesses, and a large number of homes in foreclosure. I feel it can be argued that bigger is not necessarily better.

I have loved living in West Sacramento with its family friendly small town atmosphere but am very concerned about the lack of concern the council seems to have for the many limited income families living in this area and the effect of these frequent increases. It is worth comparing the responsibilities of the elected school board that cannot just vote additional fees if needed but must live within a fixed and determined budget without the vote of the people.

Giveaway returns

The West Sacramento Community Give-Away Day is back for our fifth consecutive year! On Saturday, November 19th all West Sacramento families with children are invited to pick up free food, clothes and toys while supplies last. The event starts at 8 a.m. at the Westfield Village Elementary School, 508 Poplar Avenue.

Thanks to the generous donations of our sponsors, the Westfield Elementary School, St. Joseph's Mobile Mall and West Sacramento Grocery Outlet; we will provide free food (a Thanksgiving dinner), clothing, blankets, jackets and toys to more than 300 low-income families.

It is an incredible experience each year to partner with our generous sponsors and so many members of the community to ensure those with basic needs for food, clothing and toys for the children are embraced and supported during the holidays.

If you are interested in becoming a sponsor, volunteer or making a donation, call me at 530-979-6555. Donations can also be dropped off at the Children's Alliance offices at the West Sacramento Family Resource Center, 1200 Anna Street, Room 21 or in Davis at 600 A Street, Suite Y.

West Sacramento residents wishing to pick up items at the event must have children 18 years of age or younger and provide proof of address such as a driver's license and/or utility receipt. For more information, call the West Sacramento Family Resource Center (Alyce Norman Office) at 916-572-0560.

We hope to see a huge crowd of volunteers and families on give-away day!
